After School Snack Program

The After School Snack Program is designed to provide nutritious snacks for students up to the age of 18 who participate in supervised after school programs. Good nutrition is essential to full physical and cognitive development and after school snacks help children get the nutrition they need to learn, play and grow.

DFNS offers bagged snacks, tray snacks and the supper program for eligible sites.

Schools eligible to participate in the Afterschool Snack Program must provide regularly scheduled educational or enrichment activities in a structured environment. Educational or enrichment activities could include arts and crafts, homework assistance, life skills, and computer or remedial education. Competitive sports are not eligible activities. However, after school care programs that include a sports activity as part of their enrichment program may be eligible.

Farm to Group Home Program

The Farm to Group Home Program works to ensure that low-income adults with developmental disabilities living in group homes have access to fresh, local, organic produce. Participating Group Homes choose to either pick up their produce on the farm (CSA) or receive a staple share, delivered to central drop off location. Those who pick up their food on the farm interact with other customers and staff, learn to incorporate fresh food into their group home meals, and utilize the pick-your-own garden where they learn about herbs and flowers. Those who receive staple shares are encouraged to visit the farm for events and to volunteer, and they receive supplemental information including recipes for healthy eating.

Maryland Meals for Achievement

Maryland Meals for Achievement, a research based pilot program that provides a classroom breakfast to all students in the school, began in 1998 with six schools statewide.

Harvard University researchers have determined that the classroom breakfast program has a positive impact on student achievement. Researchers from Harvard University have evaluated the project's impact on academics and behavior. They have found that classroom breakfast has a positive impact on Maryland School Performance Program (MSPAP) scores and grades. Researchers also credit classroom breakfast with improving student attendance by about two days per school year, decreasing tardiness and behavior problems, and increasing students' attention spans.

The Maryland State Department of Education (MSDE) has included $3.1 million in their "Aid to Education" budget.

Schools are eligible to participate with state funding if they have at least 40 percent of their enrollment eligible for free or reduced-price meals as of October 31st of each year.

Montgomery County began MMFA in September 1999 with one school, South Lake Elementary School in Gaithersburg. The number has now grown to 29, including 4 middle schools. Breakfast participation in the elementary schools before the pilot program was about 20% with 2 schools averaging 45%. Breakfast participation in MMFA averages 75% in the elementary schools. The middle school averaged 11% participation at traditional breakfast. Participation now in the MMFA program is running at approximately 60%.

Meal Program

From the time Bethesda Cares first opened its doors, serving lunch has been an ongoing program. First and foremost food is available to alleviate hunger and reduce harm to the individual. Secondly, it is a means of engagement to services for those living on the streets. One may hear of lunch then learn of other services available or may not want other services at this time but willing later when the person feels most comfortable.

Four area churches open their social halls to help feed the homeless. The county provides funding for box lunches during the week and volunteers supplement the food or provide the meals the rest of the time. An amazing show of support from the community makes this possible. Volunteers serve lunch, bring food, and hold food drives to make this the "best soup kitchen" in the words of a client. Our coordinators never know the count of how many will show so it is indeed magic when so many hands faithfully come together to help those who have the least in our community. Thanks to our congregational partners: The Church in Bethesda, Christ Evangelical Lutheran Church, Bethesda Presbyterian Church and Our Lady of Lourdes Catholic Church for their long term faithfulness in serving the homeless and working poor in our community.

Senior Nutrition Program

The Program provides meals in congregate (group) settings where activities and services for seniors are available; nutrition education, screening & counseling are also available. The program also serves as a central contact for home delivered meals, referring seniors to Meals on Wheels that serve their addresses.

Meals are nutritious and suitable for persons with diabetes, heart disease and hypertension because they meet federal standards that include each meal providing at least 1/3 of the recommended dietary allowances for older adults and complying with the Dietary Guidelines for Americans.

Kosher, Chinese, Korean and Vietnamese meals and programming targeted to these ethnic groups are available at certain sites.
