

I'm Ryan Kunst, a student in the Student Government Association at Wootton High School. I sprained my ankle playing baseball about a year and a half ago. I was on crutches at the time, so I had to use the elevator at Wootton. I stopped recently, although it was pretty boring taking the elevator. At Wootton, there are two elevators. While one is strategically positioned in the middle of a hallway, the other is hidden and distant from many classrooms. It was uncomfortable and inconvenient to use these elevators while using crutches in between lectures. A more solvable issue than elevator placement is getting the key into the elevator to operate it. There are two keyholes on one of the elevators, however only one of them is functional. The key was difficult to spin since it occasionally wouldn't turn in either direction. The last issue I have with the elevators is that they occasionally just didn't function. Throughout my time with the elevator, it was completely broken a number of times. The button lit up and the key turned, but the elevator never arrived. I wasted time and energy traveling across the school to the other elevator as a result of this. Wootton needs to maintain and repair its elevators
