Maryland Unemployment Insurance Overview

The Maryland Unemployment Insurance (UI) program provides temporary financial assistance to individuals who have lost their jobs – through no fault of their own – offering partial income replacement while they seek new employment.

Eligible claimants can receive a weekly benefit ranging from $50 to $430 for up to 26 weeks. UI benefits are subject to both federal and state taxes.

- Claimants must file claim certifications every week to keep their claim open and active and to request payment, even while waiting for a determination.

Should I apply for Unemployment in Maryland?

As a federal civilian employee, you should apply in Maryland if:

- Your last official duty station (as listed on your SF-50) is Maryland
- Your last official duty station (as listed on your SF-50 or Personal Service Contract) is outside of the United States, you have returned to the United States and you reside in Maryland at the time of your application
- You have had regular, non-federal employment in Maryland after your federal civilian employment and you reside in Maryland at the time of your application.

You should not apply in Maryland if:

- Your last official duty station is any other state or district (including District of Columbia, Puerto Rico and U.S. Virgin Islands).
 - If you worked remotely from Maryland, you must still apply in the state of your duty station, even if you never physically worked there.
- Your last official duty station is outside of the United States and you do not reside in Maryland

When should I apply?

In most cases, you should apply the Sunday after your last day of work

- If your last day of work is early in the week, you may apply the day after your last day of work to request partial benefits for that week.
- If you are no longer physically working but are still receiving paid administrative leave, you should not apply until after you stop receiving paid administrative leave.
