Apostille/Standard Certification of Documents for International Use

This guide outlines the general apostille process. Due to the COVID-19 pandemic, it is highly recommended that you contact the individual offices directly to confirm current operating procedures.

In 1961, the Hague Convention was enacted to simplify the authentication process of international documents. Countries that have signed the Convention agree to accept the signature of the State Secretary of State as an apostille certification without having the document authenticated by the U.S. Department of State. If you need to submit a document to a non-Hague Convention country (standard certification), you will need to have the document also authenticated by the U.S. Department of State.

Please refer to the U.S. State Department’s website for a list of countries that have signed the Convention (https://travel.state.gov/content/travel/en/International-Parental-Child-Abduction/abductions/hague-abduction-country-list.html).

Note: First contact the embassy/consulate/organization to see what their specific authentication requirements are.
