STATE PROGRAMS

Maryland Safe at Home Address Confidentiality Program

<https://sos.maryland.gov/ACP/Pages/default.aspx>
410-260-3875
safe.athome@maryland.gov

The Maryland Safe at Home Address Confidentiality Program (ACP) was established by state law in 2006. Administered by the Office of the Secretary of State, the ACP prevents violence and future harm by working closely with government agencies and private companies to keep the location information of survivors and threatened individuals off public record. The ACP empowers Maryland residents who have recently relocated or intend to relocate to a new address to protect themselves and seek stability as active members of society without fearing for their safety.

The ACP has two components:

- Substitute Address - the ACP assigns a legal substitute address for participants to use in place of a home, work, or school address. State law requires all government agencies, private companies, and individuals to accept the substitute address. The substitute address is not related in any way to an ACP participant's actual address.
- Mail-forwarding Service - ACP participants designate the Secretary of State at their agent to receive first-class, certified, and registered mail as well as service of process. Participant mail is forwarded free of charge to their confidential address.

Homeland Security Investigations (HSI) investigates allegations of human trafficking of both foreign and United States born victims and works closely with other federal, state, and local law enforcement partners to further these investigations. HSI also maintains attaché offices in forty-seven countries which can be utilized to assist in the investigation of transnational criminal organizations involved in human trafficking. HSI recognizes that severe consequences of human trafficking continue even after the perpetrators have been arrested and held accountable. HSI's Victim Assistance Program helps coordinate services to help human trafficking victims, such as crisis intervention, counseling and emotional support both during and after the investigative process.

University of Baltimore School of Law Human Trafficking Prevention Project

Supervising Attorney: Jessica Emerson, LMSW, Esq.
jemerson@ubalt.edu
410.837.5709

The Human Trafficking Prevention Project (HTPP) focuses on reducing the collateral consequences of criminal and civil legal involvement for sex workers, survivors of human trafficking and those populations put at highest risk of exploitation.

The HTPP works in partnership with Maryland Volunteer Lawyers Service (MVLS), the state's largest provider of pro bono legal services. HTPP staff represent clients in criminal and civil record relief matters, including, but not limited to, expungement, shielding, and vacatur of arrests and/or convictions. Through our partnership with MVLS, the HTPP is also able to provide clients with legal help in other civil legal matters, including family law, consumer debt and credit repair, including Debt Bondage Repair Act claims for Maryland-based trafficking survivors, tax disputes, and name and gender marker changes, among other civil legal issues.

The HTPP is also available to provide training and technical assistance on the availability of criminal and civil record relief within the state of Maryland, as well as working with survivors of trauma and other marginalized populations.

To refer a client for services, please visit our website at <https://htprevention.org/get-help/>. To request a training, please fill out our training & speaker request form here: <https://htprevention.org/training-and-speaker-request-form/>.

Michelle C. DeLuane, Chief Executive Officer
24-hour call center: 1-800-THE-LOST (1-800-843-5678)
Phone: 703-224-2150

Established in 1984, the National Center for Missing & Exploited Children® (NCMEC) is the leading nonprofit organization in the U.S. working with law enforcement, families, and the professionals who serve them on issues related to missing and sexually exploited children. As part of its Congressional authorization, NCMEC has created a unique public and private partnership to build a coordinated, national response to the problem of missing and sexually exploited children, establish a missing children hotline and serve as the national clearinghouse for information related to these issues.

NCMEC plays a vital role in the Innocence Lost National Initiative by being a clearinghouse for information obtained from the public and Electronic Service Providers about children being exploited through sex trafficking; providing analytical and technical assistance services to law enforcement investigating these cases; and dedicating case management support for missing children victimized through sex trafficking. NCMEC operates the CyberTipline, which receives leads and tips regarding suspected crimes of sexual exploitation committed against children. This includes exploitation of a child by traffickers, children being sold for sex online, and other forms of child sexual exploitation.

To report a missing child or request assistance with a case involving child sex trafficking please call 1.800.THE.LOST or if you have information regarding possible online child sexual exploitation, please make a report at www.cybertipline.com.
